 LAW CENTER

Dear Mr. Sample,

Do you remember when you started your own journey in legal education? On the first day of classes, you were excited to embark on this new adventure, or perhaps you were a bit nervous about a class with a challenging professor. Either way, you loved the learning opportunities you had at the University of Houston Law Center. You remember the lessons you learned that prepared you for the courtroom or the boardroom. The lessons will still be the same, while the incoming students will have an entirely new place of learning as we move into the new John M. O'Quinn Law Building this fall.

It is an exciting time for University of Houston Law Center alumni as we prepare for the next chapter in the law program. We are so proud of this milestone moment, and today we are asking you to help ensure incoming students have a dynamic learning environment to thrive. Our new building will be a place where the brightest students in Houston's community come together and pursue legal excellence. As we prepare to welcome the largest – and strongest credentialed – incoming class in the law school's history, we need your support to provide students with the most robust learning experience possible.

Your unwavering loyalty to the Law Center is what helped make this dream of a new John M. O'Quinn Law Building happen. The new building is where students learn from top faculty and have real-life experiences that prepare them for embarking on their legal careers. As we expand the entering students' horizons in educating them to be future legal professionals, will you join us and help further the dream of receiving a legal education possible by making a gift today?

Your dedication and ongoing support are inspiring. On behalf of the faculty, staff and students, we truly appreciate your partnership as we enter the new John M. O'Quinn Law Building this Fall. Together, we will Fuel the Future.

Thank you and be well,

Leonard M. Baynes
