

Your gift matters.

The excitement of homecoming and the long hours spent preparing for midterms are in the rearview mirror.

Now, as the crisp autumn air moves in and the trees on the quad turn varying shades of orange and red, Case Western Reserve University students look toward what's next: a successful end to the semester and an even more exciting journey beyond.

Our students are empowered in their pursuits by donors like you, whose commitment fuels the programs and resources designed to help them learn, discover and innovate. On behalf of CWRU students, faculty and staff, I extend my heartfelt gratitude for your continued support. Your generosity propels our mission, forging an enduring legacy for future students—one defined by determination, enthusiasm and purpose.

Today I invite you to strengthen this legacy with a new gift to the school or program that's meaningful to you.

Please visit giving.cwru.edu/24Q2M or by returning the enclosed envelope.

With my thanks,

Srinivas
