Dear «JF_Salutation»:

When you visit the Chicago Botanic Garden, you enter a living museum where nature, science, education, and community engagement come together to make a difference.

Please consider renewing your Annual Fund support with a gift of «Ask» this year to empower the essential work of the Garden.

The Garden is dedicated to nurturing the connection between people and plants. We believe that everyone deserves to experience the transformative power of the natural world, whether it's through taking a rejuvenating stroll in McDonald Woods, learning in nature with one of our many educational programs, or simply taking a moment to appreciate the beauty and serenity of the Elizabeth Hubert Malott Japanese Garden.

Your President's Circle membership helps us:

- Restore Natural Habitats: Ecologists and volunteers work to protect and restore McDonald Woods' formerly degraded 100-acre woodland and other natural habitats in our region into thriving ecosystems for native plants, birds, and insects.
- Educate and Inspire: Our graduate degree programs and youth outreach efforts inspire the next generation of plant conservation and environmental stewards.
- Cultivate Urban Agriculture: The Garden's Windy City Harvest program provides fresh, locally grown produce to neighborhoods in need of healthy food options while providing jobs training for aspiring farmers and entrepreneurs.
- Support Research: The Negaunee Institute for Plant Conservation Science and Action leverages cutting-edge research to tackle pressing environmental challenges.

Our planet and our futures depend on diverse, healthy plants for food, fuel, fiber, fragrance, and the air we breathe. Please consider increasing your gift to «Ask» this year to support our crucial work in harnessing the power of plants for the benefit of people and our planet. Thank you, «JF_Salutation», for your membership in the President's Circle and for your ongoing partnership in the important work of the Chicago Botanic Garden.

With warm thanks,

Jean M. Franczyk
President and Chief Executive Officer
