October 26, 2023

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Sample,

The holiday season is an exciting time for children. But for those who will be staying with us at the University of Iowa Stead Family Children's Hospital, this can be an especially difficult time for young patients and families.

Children facing health challenges often experience intense worry and stress. This emotional strain can come from being away from their family during a hospital stay or when they undergo a medical procedure. Unfortunately, this anxiety can make it harder for them to heal and unable to respond positively to medical help.

To help children cope, our Child Life specialists provide age-appropriate communication and activities to help children through the emotional, psychological, and social aspects of medical care. We also offer individual and group programs that meet the emotional needs of patients and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Sample, please make a special holiday gift of $HPC, $UG1.5, or more today. Your gift will help us deliver compassionate care to patients that promotes healing.
