Thank you for your leadership and generosity.

DEFY GRAVITY

Dear <First Name>,

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

Every year, I welcome the change of pace summer brings for the many students, faculty and staff who study, work, and live at the University of Toronto. The season offers time to look back on the past academic year and plan for achievements sure to lie ahead. Although study and work continue, this quieter period allows me to reflect on the deep gratitude I feel for your contributions to the University.

As Chancellor, I witness the impact your giving has on our students each day. Led by your support, U of T continues to open worlds of opportunities for our talented learners. I have long felt that true success of any kind necessitates collaboration. And indeed, it takes a global community to Defy Gravity; to commit to excellence, accessible education, and inclusion. I am thankful you share and advance that vision through your support of <Division Name>.

From transforming campus spaces to enriching teaching and learning opportunities to advancing ground-breaking research, your philanthropy is central to our current and future shared success. With your continued support, we will continue championing diverse talent, ideas and disciplines together to solve complex issues at home and worldwide.

I believe leadership is defined by how you impact others. Today, on behalf of all those at the University who benefit greatly from your generosity, I thank you for your leadership. It is nothing short of inspiring.

With warm appreciation,

Rose M. Patten
