Dear Friend,

As the High Holy Days approach, we enter a sacred time of reflection—a chance to examine our actions, our values, and the path we hope to follow in the year ahead. In our tradition, this process is called teshuvah. Often translated as repentance, its deeper meaning is return—a coming back to who we are truly meant to be.

In this moment of deep uncertainty and rising injustice, we are called to teshuvah: a return to our highest selves and to the enduring Jewish values of compassion, justice, and shared responsibility. This year, let your teshuvah move beyond reflection into meaningful action—a recommitment to repairing our broken world, including our broken country.

At MAZON, our work is rooted in these values. We believe that in a nation as abundant as ours, no one should go hungry. Yet today, more than 47 million Americans—including veterans, single mothers, seniors, and children—struggle with hunger every day. As the current administration continues its shocking dismantling of vital government programs that have existed for nearly a century, it is our sacred responsibility to return to—and act on—our core values. The urgency has never been greater.

In this season of reflection and generosity, consider how your commitment to justice can make a tangible difference for those facing hunger. In honor of our 40th anniversary, the estate of Vera Garay has committed $400,000 as a 4:1 match—meaning every dollar you give unlocks four more, up to a total of $100,000 in donations.

Your support empowers MAZON to hold our government accountable, ensuring that it fulfills its sacred responsibility to provide stability to those facing hunger—and to confront hunger at its roots. Together, we can build a more secure, just, and compassionate society; one where no one is left behind.

Please make your High Holy Day gift to MAZON today. Your generosity is itself a sacred act of return to your best self and to a vision of a world where no one goes hungry.

L'shanah tovah tikateivu. May this be a year of renewal, justice, and sustenance for all.

With gratitude,

Abby J. Leibman
President & CEO

P.S. Make your gift today and unlock a portion of a 4:1 match—every dollar you give will be matched with four more, up to $100,000, by the estate of Vera Garay.
